- The site will be open prior to check in for those who get into town before 2pm.

DINING & ALLERGIES

Food will be labeled to identify vegetarian options, or foods that may contain allergens that have been identified to us through the registration process. We have tried to accommodate those food allergies we have been made aware of. If you feel you need to bring any perishable food to supplement the meals provided, please bring it in a paper bag that you can clearly mark with your name. We have planned for some vegetarian options available at each meal, but if you have specific dietary needs it is your responsibility to ensure you have what you need. Please be sure to let everyone eat before going up for seconds. We will attempt to have an open seating plan (people come in over an hour period, moving from the tables as soon as they are done eating), but if that doesn't work, we may have to resort to assigning dining times. Please be courteous and move your conversation elsewhere after you are done if people need to eat.

HEALTH AND SAFETY

While every member and guest is expected to be responsible for themselves and their own well being, we do have members in place to help in this regard. Any TarValon.Net Community Admin and those on our safety committee will do their best to help you. Some of them include:

Cassie Sedai (Mistress of Revels) – Cassie is the main event coordinator. She can be contacted for information regarding schedule, activities, general questions, and can be sought out in case of emergency.

Serinia Sedai (Director of Events and Conferences) - Serinia, or more commonly "Seri," is the next step above Cassie. She can be contacted for information regarding schedule, activities, general questions, and can be sought out in case of emergency.

Serenla Sedai (Director of Membership) – Serenla is the first line for questions if there is a dispute or general member problem during the event.

Dralyn Sedai (Keeper of the Chronicles) – Dralyn is the next step above Serenla for membership problems.

Eleyan Sedai (Amyrlin Seat) – Eleyan, or much more commonly "Mother," oversees the general execution of the event and serves as the final authority while at camp. If there is a dispute or a member problem during the event, the Amyrlin will be brought in if it is not quickly resolved.

Riley Gaidin (Camp Nurse) & Deoan Gaidin (Safety Coordinator) – Contact them if you are in need of very basic first aid, a band-aid, or a hang-over remedy. In the event of a medical emergency, we will have you transported to the nearest hospital or clinic.

Sorcha (Local Liaison) – Our Local Liaison is most familiar with the area and can help with general directions or location information.

Please be aware of the following safety concerns:

- Be careful when handling recreation equipment. Especially if you plan on playing with practice swords, bows and arrows, or are wearing any sort of weapon. You are responsible for your own safety, and a strict safety code will be following. If you have had any alcohol you will not be permitted to participate in any weaponized events.
- Please do not grab or unsheathe a weapon belonging to another person. While it is fine to take a weapon out of its sheath to show people, anyone caught brandishing live steel will be asked to leave the event.

SET UP AND CLEAN UP

All members are expected to help with set-up and clean up. We will need help after every meal, and on Sunday we will especially need people to pitch in a hand or two. If you are attending the event, please expect that you will be asked to do some work. If you have not been active in a planning committee, please plan on being more active in the set-up and clean-up than the average member. All groups have been assigned a specific meal to help clean up, or a day to take over general trash duty (room trash as opposed to kitchen trash, but it would be nice to help there, too!). If your scheduled day/time to clean conflicts with another obligation, please arrange to switch with someone else from another group. Make sure the members of your group are aware of the switch!

REGARDING NOISE LEVELS

We ask that all members be courteous of fellow members who may be sleeping; especially between the hours of midnight and 10 am. The Administration reserves the right to ask members to quiet things down if it is getting unreasonably disruptive. While breakfast officially will start being served at 9am, we ask that those eating it try to keep noise to a minimum until 10am. Eleyan Sedai, Serinia Sedai, and Cassie Sedai will be serving as Cabin Leaders. They are there to help you with any minor issues that come from co-habitation, and we ask that you listen to them if they ask for activities to be moved elsewhere, or to quiet down.

Living in close quarters with a lot of people can be challenging. There are several things you can do that will help keep things running smoothly.

- Keep your items tidy. Don't throw things on the floor or allow it to accumulate in piles. This makes packing and clean up much easier, and drastically cuts down on our amount of lost items.
- Respect other's sleeping spaces. Don't sit on their beds without asking (or put your feet up on them!), don't use your room as a place to socialize if any of your roommates are sleepy, be sure your roommates are okay with you engaging in any behavior which might be uncomfortable to walk in on, etc.
- Room trash bins will be emptied every day in the evening. If you need yours emptied, please place it neatly outside your door before 5pm. If you have particularly gross (or personal) trash, please be polite and empty your bin yourself.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

· Members and guests will be held accountable for their behavior as outlined in our Constitution.

Article 4, Section 4 states: All attending a TarValon.Net function must behave in full accordance with this constitution and the Code of Conduct. Members who fail to comply may be asked to leave the event and will not be granted a refund. If disciplinary action is needed at a real life event, it may result in termination of membership. Members must act as responsible guests. This includes respecting personal property and space, as well as helping with set-up, clean-up, and costs.

· No person under the age of 21 may consume alcohol at the event. No member or guest under the age of 18 may smoke.

· You may not bring a guest who was not previously approved through our guest list.

· Smokers are asked to smoke only in the designated smoking area. These areas will be outdoors. Please dispose of cigarette butts and ashes appropriately.

· No one may handle a sword if they appear intoxicated. Anyone found handling a weapon in an inappropriate or threatening manner will be asked to leave the function without refund.

· If you want to participate in an activity, please arrive on time.

· Members should be aware that we are sharing the site with other paying guests, and should behave accordingly in a respectful and courteous manner (as well as be aware of noise levels).

Additionally, the staff has gone out of their way to assist us in putting this event together several times over the past months. Please thank them!

· All members must comply with requests of Administration. Please note, administrators were chosen very carefully for this event. They are not the sort of people to make arbitrary requests and support both your personal responsibility and privacy. If an administrator asks you to change a behavior it is because there is considerable risk to yourself or others involved. Refusal to comply may result in your being asked to leave the event.

· If you have a difficulty, or need assistance, please contact an Administrator for help.

DA'COVALE AUCTION

The "Da'covale Auction" is one of TarValon.Net's biggest fundraisers. These funds go directly to paying our day-to-day operational costs. It's a fabulous way for both those who put themselves up for auction and those who buy them to help keep us up and running! Volunteers will be auctioned on Saturday night and their service lasts from the time of purchase through 2 AM Sunday. People may chip in together and jointly purchase a da'covale. You may purchase more than one.

The following rules apply to owning a da'covale:

1) You cannot have your da'covale do anything illegal.

2) You cannot make your da'covale do anything sexual in nature. (If (s)he wants to, and you're up for it, that's your business, but you cannot use their "servitude" to have them do it.)

3) Da'covales are not to be beaten. (Unless they're into that sort of thing, see above)

- 4) Da'covales are expected to do all "gophering" (go for) and fetching that their buyer demands of them, as well as any cleaning up.
- 5) Da'covales may be asked to embarrass themselves by doing such things as singing "I'm a little teapot" while doing the motions. This is completely within the rights of the buyer and within reason and the da'covales are expected to comply. Happily.
- 6) Da'covales can be used as a substitute for the buyer in certain cases of doing chores; but only if the da'covale is not already occupied doing things for their assigned committee.
- 7) The ownership of a da'covale will be dissolved without refund if Administration determines that the da'covale is being unduly mistreated.

If you have volunteered to be a da'covale, you must attend the mandatory meeting and training session in the lodge. Please do not be late!

RAFFLE FUNDRAISER

The drawing will take place throughout the event and includes a selection of prizes! Tickets are $1 each and may be purchased at check in. Tickets will also be given as prizes and rewards throughout the event.

COSTUMES

Costumes are not required, but they are a fun part of our events and are highly encouraged! Feel free to wear your costume at any time, or even just at our main events. If you have more than one, we suggest you use your more common traveling costume for Friday night at the Tavern, and your more noble costume for Saturday night festivities. The costume contest will be held on Saturday night. Have fun!

A WORD FROM OUR LEADER ON WHAT TO EXPECT

TarValon.Net events can be daunting when attended for the first time. It can be especially challenging for people who have never met friends off of the Internet before, or for people are generally not used to being around a lot of people for a few very intensely social days! The following information should help you prepare for the weekend, clarify what we're doing, and minimize any surprises.

- TarValon.Net people are generally a very friendly lot! Many people are initially surprised by how many people recognize them on sight, and how warmly they're greeted. If you're attending, then you're a member here and many of us view our friendships here as being just as valuable as our friendships elsewhere. There is generally a lot of hugging, especially on the first day.

- At this point in time, many of us have met in person several times. As such, we are comfortable around each other. Remember that a lot of us know each other well, have each other to our homes on a regular basis, talk on the phone quite a lot... The closeness is quite normal.

- Our major events have a lot of people present. It can be easy to be overwhelmed by all of it and feel suddenly very alone even when in a crowd. It's common; almost all of us have felt it at one event or another (I tend to feel that way at least once every event). The best thing to do is find a quiet space for a time, grab some one on one time with another person and talk it out, then get back into the social fray. A lot of us are computer geeks and as such are used to more private time and personal interactions. Expect that you might feel this way, and don't worry if it happens.

- With ~70 people living in close proximity for four days, someone is going to invariably annoy or anger someone else. We have a lot of different personalities (many of them quite strong) and not all of them are going to click. Do your best to remember what you like about that person, give yourself some distance, and be generous with your forgiveness. ;-)

- This event is an adult party. We are doing our best to make it slightly more family oriented, but it is at its heart a bunch of adults camping together. People will undoubtedly drink too much, people will hook up, and people may even do/say stupid things. What happens at camp stays at camp. We don't gossip about who slept where, or who needed a hangover remedy on Sunday morning.

- I, along with many of the other very Senior members of the site, tend to joke a lot and enjoy making fun of ourselves (which may include self-deprecating comments about us being a cult, or desires to take over the world). It is vitally important to understand that this is all said in jest. We are not a religion. We are not trying to take over the government. We are not going to all go live in a commune. It is quite safe to drink the Goldschlager, save for perhaps personal taste. No, we can't channel. And no, we do not think we are better than anyone else. If you hear someone say something that you find alarming, and you are not certain if it is in jest, please ask them. And if you ever hear that I have said something and you don't know if it was in jest or not, please ask me and I will be more than happy to honestly tell you what I meant, and explain the joke if applicable. ;-)

- At events we tend to refer to each other by a mix of our Tower and our real life names (Tower names are more common at the larger events). It is perfectly acceptable to use either. Titles are generally not used. (However, I have been known to personally answer faster to "Mother" than to "Melissa" or "Eleyan" at events because it is generally what people call me and if I am multitasking that's the name I keep an ear out for.)

- Yes, Novices do dishes and Recruits take out the trash. But so does everyone else. Chores are shared communally.

- We do have some ceremonies that we perform which include our raisings. These are a fun, theatrical part of our event and many people look forward to it!

- Cell phones may not work at our location. Try to have voice mail available or a single point of contact to check in with in case you are difficult to reach.

TIPS TO HELP YOU HAVE A BETTER TIME

- Have one or two "buddies" that you keep track of over the weekend. A lot of people use their Aes Sedai/Warder, Roomies, members of their Ajah, etc. for this purpose. It's good to have someone know where you are and how you're doing.

- Try to eat with different people at each meal! We have such a great array of members and each of them is unique and wonderful in their own way. Eating with someone new is a great way to know more people.

- Try to say "hello" to everyone at least once at the event. You will surely not be able to have a long meaningful conversation with everyone in the span of four days, but do try to meet and greet everyone.

- Get involved in the activities. There is a wide variety of activities to choose from! Pick one that suits your mood and spend time with everyone.

- Try to get some sleep. It can be pretty scarce at our events. But sleeping, and remembering to hydrate oneself, can make a big difference in the quality of one's experience.
