Dear Friends,

10 years ago, I could never have guessed how many friends and family I would meet through TarValon.Net, nor that all of you would affect my life so profoundly. I find myself oddly (and uncharacteristically) speechless at this moment. You already know how important this place has been to me, and I know that it is important to you too. So I think I will fall back on the tried and true, and simply make my message into a toast.

- ❖ To Robert Jordan for bringing us all together with his work,
- ❖ To Brandon Sanderson and Team Jordan for continuing his legacy,
- ❖ To David Duchovney, flashlights across the screen, and the toasts that they inspire,
- ❖ To ideas that sound fairly insane the morning after,
- ❖ To pants,
- ❖ To family and friends, and those friends who become family,
- ❖ To friendship, love, and Tower babies,
- ❖ To the incredible support that is so often given to others when it is most needed,
- ❖ To Al Gore (for inventing the Internet),
- ❖ To good-natured people willing to take their shirts off and hit each other with sticks for the amusement of their friends,
- ❖ To our Ajahs and Companies, the friendships they inspire, the good works they do, and the fabulous parties they throw,
- ❖ To our Junior members who make up our organizations' future,
- ❖ To all of our members who volunteer to keep this community viable and strong,
- ❖ To a healthy love of soap,
- ❖ To the aliens (who hypothetically stole your family),
- ❖ To ducks, stable rats, s'redit, puffins, dinosaurs, rabid novices, and well-read, warder-trained, fire-breathing monkey-trollocs (in pants),
- ❖ To our bondmates, and our first and near-siblings,
- ❖ To our family for putting up with all this nonsense,
- ❖ To being hit with progressively larger sea creatures,
- ❖ To blanket forts for grown-ups,
- ❖ To you, and to our friendship,
- ❖ To making a difference,
- ❖ To another 10 years,

Yours in the Light,
Eleyan Teyal a'Landerin
The Watcher of the Seals
The Flame of TarValon.Net
The Amyrlin Seat

This year marks our tenth anniversary as a community. I've been lucky enough to be a part of it for nine of those years. I'm fairly certain that that's long enough to have earned me a spot in the "Old Guard" by now, though the powers that be may decide I'm still too young to claim entrance into such a group.

I've watched the Tower change and grow so much in this last decade. People have come and gone, groups have ebbed and flowed, relationships have grown and faltered, structures and programs have changed and been discontinued... things change on a daily basis. And they will continue to change for the next ten years, and however long beyond that we are here.

Yet the core remains — that idea that we can be more than what we were, that we can affect lives outside of our own sphere, that we can change the world for someone else. That is something that hasn't really changed as we have watched the years pass together. Whether that's lending a couch to someone who needs it for a few days, letting someone cry on your shoulder, giving to a member family who would otherwise have nothing for the holidays, or donating money to a charity that helps those who cannot help themselves, every day members reach out to others and try to make things better.

For nine years, I have been a member of TarValon.Net. For five of those years, you all have allowed me to serve our community. Thank you for letting me do so. Thank you for letting me watch us all grow together. Thank you for showing me what tolerance and compassion can mean. Thank you for being my anchor when faced with adversity and giving me strength when I wanted to be weak.

In the Light,
Dralyn Sedai

“I see you all as a family. And like most families, there are a bunch of distant cousins I barely know. But that doesn’t mean that if you needed support I wouldn’t be there for you. We all have fears and insecurities of some sort, we all have things in our past (or present) we’re not proud of. In short, we are all human. I have never been prouder to have you all as Sisters.”

—Padraigin al’Teirik

On Monday 5th July 2010, Padraigin al’Teirik, Aes Sedai of the Blue Ajah passed away after a long battle with breast cancer.

Padra was a warm, loving and giving member of our Community. She was a devoted and faithful woman. She was always a willing ear for any Blue going through some real life problem and offered incredible advice when she could - despite the fact she had plenty going on in her own life. She was an organiser of JordanCon and worked tirelessly. She donated a lot to our community - besides her comforting presence - so much so she was named Philanthropist of the Year in 2006.

She loved travelling and writing. She loved her Blues. She also had a love for TimTams. She is missed by the Blues and the site at large.
